13. (Answers will vary. When I wrote this story, I never considered the idea that Max might be making the incident up. However, I've had kids give me some solid reasons why he might be. After all, he is a boy who appreciates a dollar. And he's no stranger to mischief. Some have said the fact that he didn't tell his parents about the incident shows he made it up. This could be a good discussion question in class instead of having people write a response.)
